South West London STP Update
South West London JHOSC
18 January 2017

Start well, live well, age well

STP update since last meeting

Since October:

- The STP and its appendices were published on 14th November 2016.
- Detail of grassroots engagement programme shared with JHOSC members.
- As per national planning requirements, CCGs and health care providers have worked together to submit their two year operating plans for 2017/18-2018/19 on 23rd December. They have also agreed 2-year contracts, based on activity projections reflecting the out of hospital shift described in our STP.
- Work continues to deliver the transformational schemes described in the STP.
- In order to drive the development of these schemes at scale and pace to deliver impacts in 2017/18, CCG Chief Officers and hospital Chief Executives across SWL agreed to prioritise five STP areas of focus over January-March 2017 (see next slide).

Next steps – delivering transformational schemes

Working through local transformation boards, the health and care system in SWL has been asked to detail their plans over January-March to deliver priority schemes in 2017/18, including requirements for funding to support their implementation.

Health care commissioners and providers and Local Authorities are working together focusing initially on reducing emergency hospital activity by:

- 1) Setting up 'Locality teams' made up of local GPs, Nurses, Allied Health Professionals, Pharmacists, mental health and social care staff who will work together to support patients and provide more care in the community. These proposals will be developed at a borough level.
- 2) Helping people nearing the end of their life to die where they want
- 3) Improving care and support for elderly patients by learning from the Sutton Care Home Vanguard and reducing emergency admissions and supporting timely discharge.

Next steps – delivering transformational schemes

4) Implementing ambulatory care proposals - providing same day hospital care for patients with acute conditions, such as deep vein thrombosis or cellulitis, who do not necessarily need admission to hospital to receive treatment.

5) Transforming community crisis and intermediate care so that patients can receive more intensive support in the community reducing the need for hospital admissions. Community crisis and intermediate care teams will work closely with locality teams.

Next steps - decision-making on acute configuration

Our best working hypothesis is that there should be four acute sites across South West London with St. George's Hospital as a fixed point. Further work is continuing and there are three strands to support this:

1. We will share our draft methodology and draft options appraisal criteria with partners, stakeholders and the public for comment in January.
2. A survey to get local views on the NHS and what matters most to people (e.g. quality of care, safety, access to services etc.)
3. A dedicated Stakeholder Reference Group, drawn from those that our equalities analysis identified as most likely to be impacted by change, has been convened to help us shape the process.

Next steps: communications and engagement plan

Our communications and engagement strategy for January and February has two major elements:

- Page 10
 To launch a new ‘conversation’ with local residents and stakeholders – a period of public engagement – called ‘Talking Healthcare in south west London’. This will include a ‘Talking Healthcare Forum’ in each borough, online engagement via social media, attendance at local meetings and the continuation of the grassroots engagement programme. This programme will build on previous dialogue across SWL and will also include an online survey. We will be writing to 1,600 + local organisations encouraging them to take part.
- To move forward at pace with the acute reconfiguration communications and engagement programme, including engaging on how decisions will be made and allowing people to comment on our methodology.

Next steps: “Talking Healthcare” Forums

- As part of the “Talking Healthcare” programme we are currently planning the Health and Care forums in each borough. We anticipate most forums taking place in February. These events are part of an on-going big conversation. The dates for these events are currently being finalised and we will confirm dates and venues shortly.
- The forums will be led by CCGs and providers and we are asking local councils to support/attend where possible . The format will be a presentation about the STP, followed by table discussions and plenary. We have appointed the Office of Public Management as an independent delivery partner to facilitate these meetings and write an independent report of feedback. The content of each session is being discussed with local authorities, providers and CCGs.
