3. Minutes

4. Climate Change - Amy Mallett, Climate Engagement Officer

Amy Mallett presented an overview of Merton's Climate Change Strategy and action plan. Merton has pledged to be a carbon neutral council by 2030 and to be a net-zero borough by 2050.

87% of respondents to Merton's 2020 Climate Survey Consultation Report considered themselves to be White British, Irish, or Other, with 13% considering themselves to be of Black, Asian or of mixed origin.

- However, 36.9% of Merton's population are from minority ethnic backgrounds.
- Research conducted by IEMA, SOS-UK and the Equalities Trust found only 3.1% of environment professionals identify as ethnic minorities.
- City Hall analysis highlights that 'Black, Asian and Minority Ethnic Londoners are more likely to be affected by the impact of the climate crisis'
- Syed Ahmed, Chair of Community Energy for London said: "BAME and poorer Londoners are more likely to live in areas which feel the full impact of climate change. This can be as a result of poorer housing, increased pollution, or reduced access to green spaces.

There are multiple intersecting factors that make communities more vulnerable to climate change, including wealth disparities, age, health, housing tenure, physical location, household composition and size among many others.

In Merton wards with the highest levels of climate risk, also have the highest proportion of residents from minority ethnic backgrounds.

Climate injustice i.e., the unequal distribution of impacts from climate change is a huge challenge which must be addressed.

The Council wants to improve our engagement with ethnic minority groups on climate change, as well as other groups who have been underrepresented in climate conversations to date. It is the ONLY way to ensure a fair and socially just transition to net zero.

The council wants to work with organisations in the JCC to identify and promote any positive work that organisations are already taking regarding carbon emissions reductions and climate adaptation. The council also wants to work with the JCC to identify ways of improving engagement on climate action with minority ethnic groups in the borough, as well as identifying barriers to action

By 2023 partnerships are being encouraged with ethnic minority groups, the Council and Merton's Volunteer led Climate Action Group to support in developing community projects to reduce emissions and realise wider co-benefits e.g., improvements in health and well-being, fuel poverty reduction etc.

Comments/Questions

Q: What's been done so far to approach BAME communities?

A: The Climate Change Officer role is new, and this is the first engagement with the B.A.M.E. communities. The council's communication channels will be used. Also, there is a Sustainable Communities Climate Action Group. The engagement is just starting.

Q: Is there a difference in the cost of energy?

A: Electricity and Gas cost difference depends on the supplier and home energy efficiency.

Q: How are we tackling the energy issue and what practical things can be feedback to BAME communities?

A: The Climate Action plan sets out a range of activities to work towards achieving zero carbon for the borough. The Climate Action group get involved. Quarterly newsletters are sent out by the council. The borough has good tree coverage that is good for high temperatures. The issue of fewer trees in the East of the borough is being addressed. Sustainable Merton is the main organisation used by the council to engage and welcomes involvement from the wider community.

The Climate Action Group was formed in 2021. There is a school's pilot on energy advice.

C: Waiting 30 years is too long, what can be done sooner?

C: It is good to know that £2 million is available to address climate change locally.

C: What is the reason for climate change? Flooding is a borough-wide issue, the West has more trees and there are cost of living issues in the East. The council should write strategies in a more equal way – residents in the East feel that the area is always made to look bad.

A: Flooding is caused by numerous factors and the quality of homes and vulnerability come together to make an area have higher risk. The interventions are more weighted in the East.

C: It is good that the council has committed £2m revenue spend on climate action

A: The funding will provide extra people to deliver a response on Energy and buildings and Traffic. £15 million of Capital funding will be used to decarbonise the refuse collection. Separate funding is available for tree planting.

Q: How are we ensuring our recycling refuse disposal is ethical and does not go to Developing countries?

A: Yes, the council disposes of recycling refuse ethically. About 10 years ago there was the scandal of rubbish being sent to Africa.

5. The council's response to B.A.M.E. Voice COVID-19 Community Resilience research and recommendations – Evereth Willis, Equality and Community Cohesion Officer

Evereth presented the council's response to the B.A.M.E. Voice COVID-19 Community Resilience research. She thanked Hannah Neale and colleagues for the work done to support the research and produce the final report.

The research aimed to understand the impact that COVID-19 has had and build resilience among the communities in its different forms: physical, mental, financial, environmental and reduce the risks to these communities in terms of infection and health outcomes.

B.A.M.E. Voice's research programme used a bottom-up approach where the existing skills and knowledge within the communities were used to develop the programme.

The methodology aimed to undertake extensive community engagement based on the traditional African/Asian forms of communication "one tells another", groups are formed into Pods to gather the lived experiences relating specifically to COVID -19 and the more general health inequalities. Each Pod was formed from residents within a certain area meeting outside, or in a large indoor space allowing for social distancing.

The research found that communities most affected by the virus were similar to those in other parts of London, however, projected high levels of infections among Caribbean and African communities had not occurred in Merton.

The Council's swift actions in response COVID-19 were valued and the report also commended the willingness of the Council, CCG & other agencies and approach taken to working with B.A.M.E. communities and wanting to learn from the losses suffered by B.A.M.E. people

However, it raised the matter of the matter of historic systemic racism as the main factor in the inequalities which B.A.M.E. communities faced. This was the view of 80% of those interviewed.

Anger was expressed that not much progress had been made in introducing changes to tackling the long-identified issues of inequalities in East Merton.

There was hope that council and its partners would use the findings as an opportunity to introduce change that makes a difference, and it was now time for less talking and more action.

The report's recommendations were outlined in the following themes:

- Health
- Education
- Employment
- General

The council's response to the recommendations is outlined in a detailed action plan appended to the report to the JCC. Evereth stressed the need for joined-up working and the council working closely with Voluntary sector organisations to co-design services that address the recommendations made.

Comments/ Questions

C: It is important to help our selves and to network constructively.

C: The Asset-based model approach was good and this approach needs to be built on.

C: To respond to educational issues more, Black Asian and Minority Ethnic (B.A.M.E) governors are needed and the council should support training and place the governors in schools across the borough. It is important to have diverse leadership in schools.

C: When assessing the Strategic Partnership funding applications, a member of the council's Race Equality Network or B.A.M.E. Voice should sit on the funding panels to give assurance that there is Cultural Competency.

C: Health Prevention Walks were suggested to help with health education messages aimed at B.A.M.E. communities . It was also suggested that to promote Black History education, consider erecting plaques to commemorate the achievements of Black people that have made great contributions in Merton or nationally.

A: The council has a team to support school governors and Equality Diversity and Inclusion training has been provided in the past. The council has the resources to encourage more B.A.M.E. residents and staff to become governors.

A: Lessons will be learnt from the previous Strategic Partnership grant process as it did not give the outcome we wanted. We want to do better for the next funding round and we will work with the Collaborative Working Group to look at ways to ensure that funding reaches grass roots organisations.

A: Transitioning to living safely and equally with COVID is important and we are dealing with the emerging issues associated with Long COVID. It is evident that there is an under representation of B.A.M.E. residents accessing support services. Public Health is going to be working with health partners to co-create resources to increase awareness. We are recommissioning services for health improvement including health checks, weight management, stop smoking, substance abuse. The procurement process will include working with the voluntary sector.

C: B.A.M.E. is not homogenous, however it is important that the different groups work in partnership – being together as one organisation gives strength to attract funds and to be cohesive.

A: Chris Lee provided reassurance that the report's recommendations have been approved by the Corporate Management Team (CMT) and the Corporate Equality Steering Group. The report's findings align with some of the new Administration's priorities, in particular regarding firstly being a Borough of Sport – improving access to sport and secondly Business – a new award for Merton's Best B.A.M.E. Business is being introduced. The council is looking at how it can use leverage to support B.A.M.E. business and the work we are doing with South London Partnership and the Knowledge Exchange can also contribute to this ambition.

C: It is good that Black business will be recognised.

C: It would be good to have an event where information on health improvement and council services can be given to B.A.M.E. communities.

A: The council needs to adapt its approach and support small organisations to make successful funding bids – it is down to the council to change.

C: It was a good process used to gather information – it would be good for the council to look at itself as to how it can support small organisation with funding applications.

6. Update on Phase 2 of the COVID-19 Community Resilience programme - Hannah Neale, Chair B.A.M.E. Voice

Hannah Neale updated the meeting and thanked the trustees - Dr Arumugaraasah and Abayeh Savage and the organisations that took part in the research.

The research required organisations to work closely with one another and come together.

She thanked the council for listening and hearing the voices of the people. It is now evident that the council is taking action. Following on from the report, B.A.M.E. Voice worked with 11 organisations looking at the wider health inequalities. Embedded in the project was COVID information. As the project went on people started to see the benefits and it built trust. People were allowed to make an informed choice.

Phase 3 is now being taken forward. Hannah thanked the Council and Councillor Macauley, Councillor Alambritis, Councillor Akyigyina, Councillor Cooper-Marbiah and Public Health for their support. There was swift help to put the projects together. Hannah also thanked John Dimmer and Evereth Willis and the B.A.M.E. residents for their honesty. The response shows there has been a difference.

Councillor Macauley thanked Hannah and her team and the officers who supported the project.

7. Any Other Business

Councillor Macauley thanked Chris Lee for his support in championing equalities and welcomed Jane McSherry who will be taking over from Chris as the CMT Equalities lead.

Councillor Macauley also thanked Councillor Stringer, Cabinet Member for Civic Pride, Councillor Nick McLean, Councillor Jennifer Gould, all the other Councillors and the Voluntary sector organisations in attendance.

The meeting ended at 8.53 pm.

JCC Presentation - The BOWEL CANCER SCREENING PROGRAMME

By Lisa-Lyna Ofosu-Asare

Bowel Cancer Screening

Page 10

Bowel Cancer Screening in South West London (SWL) is delivered by the Bowel Cancer Screening Centre (BCSC) based in St George's Hospital. The BCSC has a dedicated Health Improvement Specialist called Lisa-Lyna Ofofu-Asare, that supports the uptake of Bowel Cancer Screening across SWL. Lisa-Lyna's role involves working within primary care settings as well as doing community engagement. Lisa-Lyna is happy to Engage with Community Groups and provide information on the following:

- ▶ Bowel Cancer - Signs & Symptoms
- ▶ The Bowel Cancer Screening Programme
- ▶ The importance of taking part in the Screening Programme
- ▶ Prevention of Cancer
- ▶ Provide free Bowel Cancer Resources

Bowel Cancer

Bowel Cancer: The FACTS

Page 12

- ❖ 4th most common cancer in the UK.
- ❖ 2nd cause of cancer deaths. Around 16,000 deaths a year
- ❖ More common over 60 years old.
- ❖ 98% of people with bowel cancer live for over 5 years if caught early.
- ❖ 50% of bowel cancer cases are linked to lifestyle risk factors
- ❖ Over 42,000 people are diagnosed with bowel cancer, every year in the UK
- ❖ 1 in 15 men and 1 in 18 women will be diagnosed with bowel cancer during their lifetime.

Symptoms of bowel cancer

Not everyone with bowel cancer will have symptoms and these may vary:

- ❖ A persistent change in bowel habit, especially going more often or looser for several weeks.
- ❖ Bleeding from the anus and/or blood in your poo.
- ❖ A Lump or pain felt in the lower abdomen (tummy).
- ❖ Unexplained weight loss
- ❖ See the GP if persistent for more than TWO weeks

Bowel Cancer Screening Programme

Page 14

FIT

- ❖ Men and women aged 60 to 74 are screened every 2 years
- ❖ Men and women aged 75 and over can request a screening kit
- ❖ Currently age extension includes 56 year olds and 58 year olds.
- ❖ It involves a stool test (FIT), looks for hidden blood in the stool
- ❖ It can help identify polyps which may develop into cancer, these can be removed (cancer prevention)
- ❖ Test is done at home and posted for analysis

Barriers to participation in bowel screening

Fear and denial around the test outcome

Individual perceived low risk or don't want to know result

Gender - males less likely to take part in screening

Misconception that the test is not applicable if no apparent symptoms of bowel cancer

Lower uptake among ethnic minority groups

Lower socioeconomic group

Concerns around the practicalities and cleanliness of the test

Low health literacy and numeracy

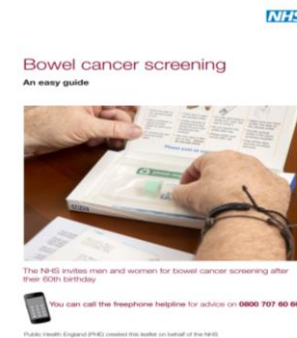

It's important to design activity to address these barriers for screening in your area, if relevant.

Explaining integrated care and what it means for South West London

Nadra Gadeed

Engagement and Equalities Lead – Merton and Wandsworth
South West London Integrated Care System

Key messages

- On 1 July 2022, we are launching South West London Integrated Care System as we take on health and care statutory responsibilities
- The ICS will have four purposes:
 1. improving outcomes in population health and healthcare
 2. tackling inequalities in outcomes, experience and access
 3. enhancing productivity and value for money
 4. supporting broader social and economic development
- The South West London Integrated Care System will bring our health and care partners closer together, to make sure local people receive the best care
- New legislation, outlined in the 2022 Health and Social Care Act, makes it easier for GPs, hospitals, mental health, social care, community services, and the voluntary sector to work together more closely.
- By working together, we can do more to: support people to live healthier and happier lives; prevent ill-health; keep people independent for longer; and take action together to address the wider-determinants of health. Examples of these wider-determinants of health are jobs, housing, education and our environment. We know these have a big impact on our health.
- All over the country, in the poorest areas people have worse health and lower life expectancy than the people living in the richest areas. Our South West London ICS will focus on reducing these health inequalities or unfair differences in health in different groups within our six boroughs.

Narrative

Changes are taking place across health and care in South West London to make sure local people receive the best care. When the NHS was first set up it focused on treating single conditions or illnesses and much has changed in the last 74 years.

The good news is that there are less infectious diseases, fewer people smoke, more people survive cancer, and advances in science and technology have revolutionised the way patients are diagnosed and treated.

However, as people live longer, they often do so with one or more ongoing health conditions, meaning they receive care and support from a variety of places including hospitals, GPs, and social care. Navigating these different services can be confusing and mean receiving care can be more stressful than it needs to be.

The idea of joining-up care is not something new. In South West London, the NHS, local councils, voluntary sector, Healthwatch, charities and community organisations have been working together to improve health and care services for local people for a long time. Our partnership working became stronger throughout the pandemic.

On 1 July 2022, we are launching South West London Integrated Care System, which will take on new health and care statutory responsibilities. This means a legal framework for services to work more closely together so that local people can receive the care they need, when and where they need it.

Each of our health and care organisations has an equal part to play round the table to understand and meet the health and care needs of local people, including a greater emphasis on working with community and voluntary sector organisations. This will mean we can make a bigger difference by helping people live healthier, more independent, and happier lives.

By working together across health and care organisations we can also work more productively with a strong focus on value for money. We can support our communities more by thinking about how we spend our money as health and care organisations. We can aim to buy locally, support local people into employment and training opportunities, and use our spaces and buildings to support our local communities.

What is Integrated Care ?

Integrated care is about giving people the support they need, joined up across local councils, the NHS, and other partners including social care providers, voluntary and community enterprise sector and charities.

These two animations help explain how

King's Fund animation: how the NHS works and how it is changing

NHS England: Strong Integrated Care Systems Everywhere

What are Integrated Care Systems?

Integrated Care Systems are partnerships of organisations that come together to plan and deliver joined up health and care services to improve the lives of people in their area. They will be responsible for how health and care is planned, paid for and delivered.

ICSs have four key purposes:

1. improving outcomes in population health and healthcare
2. tackling inequalities in outcomes, experience and access
3. enhancing productivity and value for money
4. supporting broader social and economic development

What are Integrated Care Systems?

The Health and Care Act 2022 will establish 42 ICSs across England on a statutory basis.

Integrated Care Systems will be made up of two parts:

- Integrated Care Boards decide how the NHS budget for their area is spent and develop a plan to improve people's health, deliver higher quality care, and better value for money
- an Integrated Care Partnerships bring the NHS together with other key partners, like local authorities, to develop a strategy to enable the Integrated Care System to improve health and wellbeing in its area

Other important ICS features are:

- Local authorities, which are responsible for social care and public health functions as well as other vital services for local people and businesses.
- Place-based partnerships lead the detailed design and delivery of integrated services across their localities and neighbourhoods. Our place partnerships involve the NHS, local councils, community and voluntary organisations, local residents, people who use services, their carers and representatives and other community partners with a role in supporting the health and wellbeing of the local population.
- Provider collaboratives bring NHS providers together to achieve the benefits of working at scale across multiple places and one or more ICSs, to improve quality, efficiency and outcomes and address unwarranted variation and inequalities in access and experience across different providers.

The journey to integrated care systems

SW London Integrated Care System

Page 26

South West London Health and Care Partnership was granted Integrated Care System status in 2020, and on 1 July 2022 we will take on statutory responsibilities.

Provider Collaboratives in SWL

Provider Collaboratives are partnership arrangements involving two or more trusts (foundation trusts or NHS trusts) working across multiple places to realise the benefits of mutual aid and working at scale.

There are three Provider Collaboratives in South West London:

- South London Mental Health Partnership - comprising Oxleas NHS Foundation Trust, South London and Maudsley NHS Trust and South West London and St. George's NHS Trust
- The Acute Provider Collaborative - comprising Croydon Health Services NHS Trust, Epsom and St. Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust, Kingston Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, St. George's University Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust
- RM Partners - comprising all South West London and North West London bodies supporting the NHS Cancer Pathway, including Primary, Acute and Specialist providers and screening services

The purpose of provider collaboratives is to work together to continuously improve quality, efficiency and outcomes, including proactively addressing unwarranted variation and inequalities in access and experience

Together, trusts work collaboratively to lead the transformation of services and the recovery from the pandemic, making sure they have shared ownership of their objectives and plans

In summary

- On 1 July 2022, we are launching South West London Integrated Care System as we take on health and care statutory responsibilities
- The ICS will have four purposes:
 1. improving outcomes in population health and healthcare

Our health and care partners

South West London Integrated Care System is made up of health and care partners across our six boroughs:

- Our six local authorities: Croydon, Kingston, Merton, Richmond, Sutton and Wandsworth
- Our acute and community providers: Central London Community Healthcare, Croydon Health Services NHS Trust, Epsom and St Helier University Hospitals NHS Trust, Hounslow and Richmond Community Healthcare, Kingston Hospital NHS Foundation Trust, The Royal Marsden Foundation Trust, St George's NHS Foundation Trust and Your Healthcare

- GP Federations in each of the six boroughs
- The London Ambulance Service
- Six Healthwatches: Croydon, Merton, Kingston, Richmond, Sutton and Wandsworth
- Key borough voluntary sector organisations
- And from 1 July 2022, NHS South West London Integrated Care Board, a statutory organisation that will take on many of the responsibilities previously held by NHS South West London Clinical Commissioning Group

What are the benefits of Integrated Care Systems?

Collaborating as an ICS helps health and care organisations tackle complex challenges, including:

- Improving the health of children and young people
- Supporting people to stay well and independent
- Acting sooner to help those with preventable conditions
- Supporting those with long-term conditions or mental health issues
- Caring for those with multiple needs as populations age
- Getting the best from collective resources so people get care as quickly as possible.

Croydon's practical solutions

How we're making a difference

Through the Healthy Communities Together programme, which was developed in partnership between The National Lottery Community Fund and The King's Fund, One Croydon was awarded £500,000 over 4 years to support local partnership working to improve the health and wellbeing of Croydon's local communities.

Six Local Community Partnerships (LCPs) have been implemented covering the whole of Croydon. Chairs from the local community are coming into post in each of these LCPs, bringing greater local ownership, collective voice and leadership.

The programme of LCP events gives the opportunity for local residents, community groups, local charities and health and social care teams to collaboratively develop community action plans

Locality partnership working has improved the connections between our clinical teams, our community assets and community organizations. It's empowered people to improve their quality of life.

Croydon's hospital in a hospital

How we're making a difference

To make sure that as many people as possible across South West London have their planned operation as soon as possible following the delays caused by the pandemic.

Over 18,500 patients have safely received planned care at the Croydon Elective Centre since it opened in July 2020, despite the pressures of the pandemic. The 'Covid-protected' hospital within a hospital has been dubbed a 'blueprint for the NHS', seeing around 300 patients from across South West London every week for routine surgery or planned care - more than a 10% increase since pre-lockdown levels. The Croydon Elective Centre has its own separate entrance, operating theatres, inpatient wards and a catheter lab, with strict infection prevention and control measures to keep it protected.

Around 2,000 patients have been referred to the centre from neighbouring trusts as part of a coordinate approach to tackle backlogs in South West London.

Supporting patients at home: Kingston virtual wards

How we're making a difference

All South West London hospitals have developed 'virtual wards' allowing patients who are well enough, to be monitored virtually from their own home instead of from a hospital bed.

The Kingston virtual ward has been up and running since mid-December to support low-risk cardiology and respiratory patients.

A dedicated team of highly trained clinical specialists use technology to monitor patients on the virtual ward, allowing them to be cared for safely at home and crucially freeing up bed space in hospitals. In their first six weeks, the team had already treated 21 patients and screened a total of 190 who came for care at the hospitals A&E.

Every patient is carefully assessed and counselled by specially trained clinical staff before discussing with them whether they would like to be treated by the virtual ward team at home rather than stay in hospital.

Patients are shown how to use the virtual ward monitoring equipment which they then take home with them. This means they can be monitored exactly as they would be on a real-life ward.

“Most patients don't like being in hospital and we see the change in them on the very first day of the virtual ward. They are cheerful, their skin has more colour and they are active and more hopeful. It's really nice to see that you've helped them to get home. A lot of them are really thankful to have such carefully tailored specialist care from the comfort of their own homes.

Rapid diagnostic cancer clinic at Kingston Hospital

How we're making a difference

Kingston Hospital has launched a Rapid Diagnostic Cancer Clinic to support early and faster diagnosis of cancer.

The new clinic will provide a much-needed service to patients who have non-specific symptoms which may be hard to diagnose.

Previously these patients may have presented multiple times to their GP, and had several investigations and referrals to secondary care, over long periods of time. Many of these patients may have then presented at a late cancer stage to Kingston Hospital's emergency services.

With the new clinic in place, local GP partners will now have a clear pathway to direct these patients to and the service will reduce the number of duplicate referrals and unnecessary attendances, whilst achieving what really matters to patients – early and faster diagnosis.

The launch of the Rapid Diagnostic Cancer Clinic is great news for patients who may well have been struggling to receive a diagnosis for their worrying symptoms. It will help to reduce stress, speed up diagnosis and therefore save lives

How we're making a difference

The Hounslow and Richmond Community Healthcare's Long COVID Service, which brings together staff from community, primary care, respiratory and Richmond Wellbeing Services, has helped 75 people from across Kingston and Richmond in the first three months after launching in November 2021.

Patients have their therapy in the best place for them – either as an outpatient at Richmond Rehabilitation Unit, in an online video call or telephone consultation, or at home.

People get help with managing their symptoms, learning how to cope when the brain isn't processing properly, getting the right amount of rest, and increasing chances of recovery. The team also give advice on self-care, sleep, diet, mood, work, exercise and other activities. Patients start with an initial assessment and personalised plan to address their main concerns and goals. Treatment is one to one and in a group.

“The way you're listening and caring for us is excellent and I can say that this way of care is something which I have never experienced. If you didn't create such a safe environment for us, I doubt I would have been able to speak openly about how I felt. These Fridays are always rays of hope for me that something is finally changing for us. I just wish everybody was like you.

How we're making a difference

A new partnership project operating across Kingston and Richmond is helping elderly residents maintain their independence by matching trained volunteers to people who need support to complete exercises following a fall or injury. Falls are one of the biggest issues resulting in hospital admission in Kingston and Richmond boroughs.

Through this initiative, launched in October 2021, volunteers can spend up to eight weeks supporting patients at home by helping them to complete their exercises safely. With many of these people living alone, as well as the practical support, the patients have spoken positively about the social and emotional benefit in having regular contact with someone.

The current cohort of patients, aged between 76 and 92, has now reached the end of their eight week home exercise programme, with volunteers noting that social interaction with their patients has been equally important as completing the physical exercises.

“The exercises were enjoyable and there was a good variety. I liked being able to choose and tailor the programme to suit my needs. I chose what I wanted to work on which was lower body and balance, then we found the best exercises for this. The sessions went on for a good amount of time- once a week for 8 weeks felt like enough time to build up confidence. It was nice to be able to see the volunteer... it really boosted my mood and confidence.”

How we're making a difference

We are providing more help in the community for adults who feel they are in or might be moving towards a mental health crisis that doesn't need medical intervention

Open 365 days a year, the Sutton Crisis Café is a safe, calm and supportive non-clinical place for people experiencing a mental health crisis, and an alternative to attending A&E.

The Café, on Downs Road in Belmont, is run by the Sutton Mental Health Foundation, a community mental health support service for anyone over the age of 18 living in the borough of Sutton.

The Café employs four crisis support workers, including two with specialist expertise in dealing with substance misuse, and six peer support workers, a manager and a deputy.

Since its launch in August 2021, over 100 people have been supported by the Café and almost 300 one to one crisis support sessions have been held. Some 75% of visitors to the Café are self-referred intervention.

I was amazed to find such a facility available and accessible. It makes such a difference knowing that there is a clean, safe, comfortable place I can go to talk or just be. That I can bring my dog has also been great. I am so grateful to everyone involved in this. I don't know how my story will end but, just for today, Sutton Crisis Café has made a very significant positive difference for me. Thank you.

How we're making a difference

Baby Steps in Sutton was established in 2021 to help mums who are struggling with their mental health and need some support with the transition from pregnancy to motherhood. The group, which is run as an informal drop-in session, meets every fortnight at the Riverside Centre in Carshalton between 12pm and 3pm.

Aimed at mums experiencing the first year of parenthood with mild mental health problems, the group is not prescriptive and welcomes mums who are pregnant too.

People are referred to the group by their clinicians, such as GPs, midwives and psychologists, but can also self-refer.

Mums are encouraged to come along and share their stories with other mums in the group, or simply sit and listen. There are also group activities led by Fiona, such as mindful drawing. People can get involved in as much or as little as they want to at the sessions.

Thank you for offering us a place where we can be honest about how we are feeling. It's the only mums' group I go to where I feel I can open up and really talk about my true feelings about motherhood. Love the hot tea, biscuits and the little art activities that we do.

How we're making a difference

People across Wandsworth are checking their own blood pressure on machines they keep at home with support from their doctors. It's a simple but radical move that puts people in control of their own health.

The project follows the huge shift in the way people have accessed primary care since the start of the pandemic, with the touch points where people had an opportunity to check their blood pressure at the GP practice or local pharmacy reduced.

1,250 machines have been given to people across Wandsworth, prioritising people who haven't been having their blood pressure checked in the previous 18 months and are known to a history of hypertension or are receiving treatment. Other patients have been able to buy their own.

Doctors and nurses from local practices support them to use the machines, understand what their readings mean and submit them for assessment

It's empowering to patients, who are often aware of their readings for the first time, and it's an effective use of our time. I think it's quite awesome. We're giving the machines to people who we are particularly keen to monitor, but there's a side benefit- they're not just checking their own blood pressure, they're checking their wives, husbands, dads, brothers ... which would never have happened before.

Best foot forward for fitness in Wandsworth

How we're making a difference

Wandsworth students are putting their best foot forward to build up fitness and resilience after long months of lockdown.

The students attend Share Community, a charity which supports around 140 people with autism and learning disabilities in Wandsworth and some neighbouring boroughs. A £2,444 NHS Wandsworth Community Grant paid for pedometers so students can measure their daily steps, and the training of five student health champions.

The champions will help their peers to boost walking and overall activity levels through healthy choices such as taking the stairs. They will record how the students are feeling on a day-to-day basis and monitor weight loss and reductions in blood pressure.

A health and well-being noticeboard has been set up in Share's main centre in Wandsworth. This carries positive images and easy to read information on healthy eating tips, cutting down on cholesterol and the importance of cleaning your teeth.

“ We are aiming to have about 40 people taking part in walks on our local green spaces such as Clapham and Wandsworth Commons. We'll also be boosting people's activity levels by working with the charity Disability Sports Coach. Students have reported doing more exercise overall and everyone gets really excited for Thursdays when we run a step competition!

Sew, a needle pulling thread...

How we're making a difference

Thousands of tons of perfectly good clothes are chucked away each year, often when they've only been worn a few times. But in a little corner of Merton, a dedicated group of trainee stitchers are challenging the throw-away philosophy, learning new skills and finding friendship.

Based at the Wilson Wellbeing Space at the Wilson Hospital, Project Preloved is teaching complete novices how to upcycle and mend well-loved items and give them a second breath of life. T-shirts are turned into tote bags and old cardies into colourful cushion covers.

Project Preloved is the brainchild of Rachael Edwards and her Sustainable Merton colleague Amy Coyne. Funded by The National Lottery Community Fund, distributed by Merton Giving, the scheme provides free two-hour long workshops, sewing kits, and expert tuition from professional sewers and designers. The project also provides a great place for local people – 60% of them from east Merton – to meet and work in a gentle and holistic environment.

Learning to sew, mend and upcycle gives people the skills and knowledge to save money and extend the life of their clothes. Around £140 million worth of clothing is sent to UK landfills each year. Globally, extending the average life of clothes by just nine months could save £5 billion a year.

Merton's pedalling paramedic

How we're making a difference

A ground-breaking partnership between South West Merton Primary Care Network and the London Ambulance Service is helping more patients receive key primary care services in their own homes and identifying patients who may need more support sooner.

Working between the Nelson Health Centre and Grand Drive Surgery in Raynes Park, Paramedic Matt Kilner responds to acute calls that cannot be dealt with GPs on the phone, zipping through the streets of Merton on his power assisted bicycle carrying essential medical equipment.

Matt also leads an elderly frail, low-contact project and makes routine visits to patients for diabetic or dementia reviews. On an average day, Matt visits eight patients in their own homes.

He splits his time with the London Ambulance Service at New Malden where he uses a mountain bike to rush to emergencies.

There are still some visits that only a GP will be able to perform. With most busy GPs only able to fit in a couple of home visits each day, Matt's extra eight visits a day mean many more people in Merton are able to benefit from care in their home.

We take a holistic view of how people live and because we spend a lot of time in home environments we can pick up on issues such as self-neglect, even if the signs are subtle. We can spend 45 minutes or longer with patients to find out what really matters to them and help build their personalised care plans.

1,000 extra eye ops for South West London

How we're making a difference

Cataracts surgery has been carried out on more than 1,000 extra patients in South West London thanks to hospitals teaming up to co-ordinate care to help speed through the backlog.

Epsom Hospital is being used by the local NHS for people in the region needing cataracts operations, which do not require overnight stays.

It has proven so successful that waiting times are now on track to return to normal levels seen before the pandemic struck. All patients are now being seen within the 18-week timetable.

To watch Mr Ursell talking about the service you can watch this video – <https://youtu.be/1P-YDke6CZE>.

“Other hospitals needed a bit of help, so we took on 1,000 patients from other trusts. They came over to us and we've managed to do the surgery and get the waiting list down for everybody – so we are all part of one big NHS family.”

How we're making a difference

We are building confidence in the Covid-19 vaccines by working with people in areas where uptake has been low, to reassure them the safety of the vaccination and to dispel myths that circulate on social media.

We work closely with local authorities and voluntary sector organisations to reach deep into communities to engage with different groups and to have conversations with people about the vaccine. In each borough we have developed a bespoke engagement plan with our partners, to engage with communities with lower uptake and used the vaccine data to inform where we locate pop-up vaccination clinics and focus our activity.

We have seen the success of this work through increasing numbers of people who were more reluctant or concerned about being vaccinated in the early days coming forward to receive their vaccination.

By March 2022, we had delivered more than 3 million vaccinations in South West London. Page 58 of 90

I had some questions which I made sure I asked the nurse, like what are the symptoms afterwards. Having that consultation with the nurse for about 10 minutes made me feel much more comfortable, and it was really quick, much quicker than I expected. I'm glad I came today to share the love and to now be able to help spread the word. Anybody reading this, please go ahead and get vaccinated.

How we're making a difference

Rapid diagnostic cancer clinics across South West London – one stop shops designed to make assessments quicker – have carried out 50,000 tests since opening in July 2021.

People with vague, non-specific symptoms like unexplained weight loss, appetite loss, abdominal pain or signs suggestive of cancer can be referred several times for different tests for different cancers, but these centres are helping to end that.

Should a GP or other healthcare professional suspect cancer, they can refer people to their local clinic where all the necessary investigations can be done under one roof by a specialist team – with patients usually seen within two weeks of their first appointment.

The centres also pick up a number of non-cancer diagnoses, in which case the patient is referred to the relevant specialty. Others can be provided with the reassurance that all is okay.

Our one-stop-shops have undertaken over 50,000 tests since the first clinic opened at Queen Mary's Hospital in July 2021. By working together in South West London we can see and diagnose more patients more quickly, and make sure they receive the treatment they need as quickly as possible and closer to home.

Merton Civic Pride Fund: Supporting the Voluntary and Community Sector 2023/26

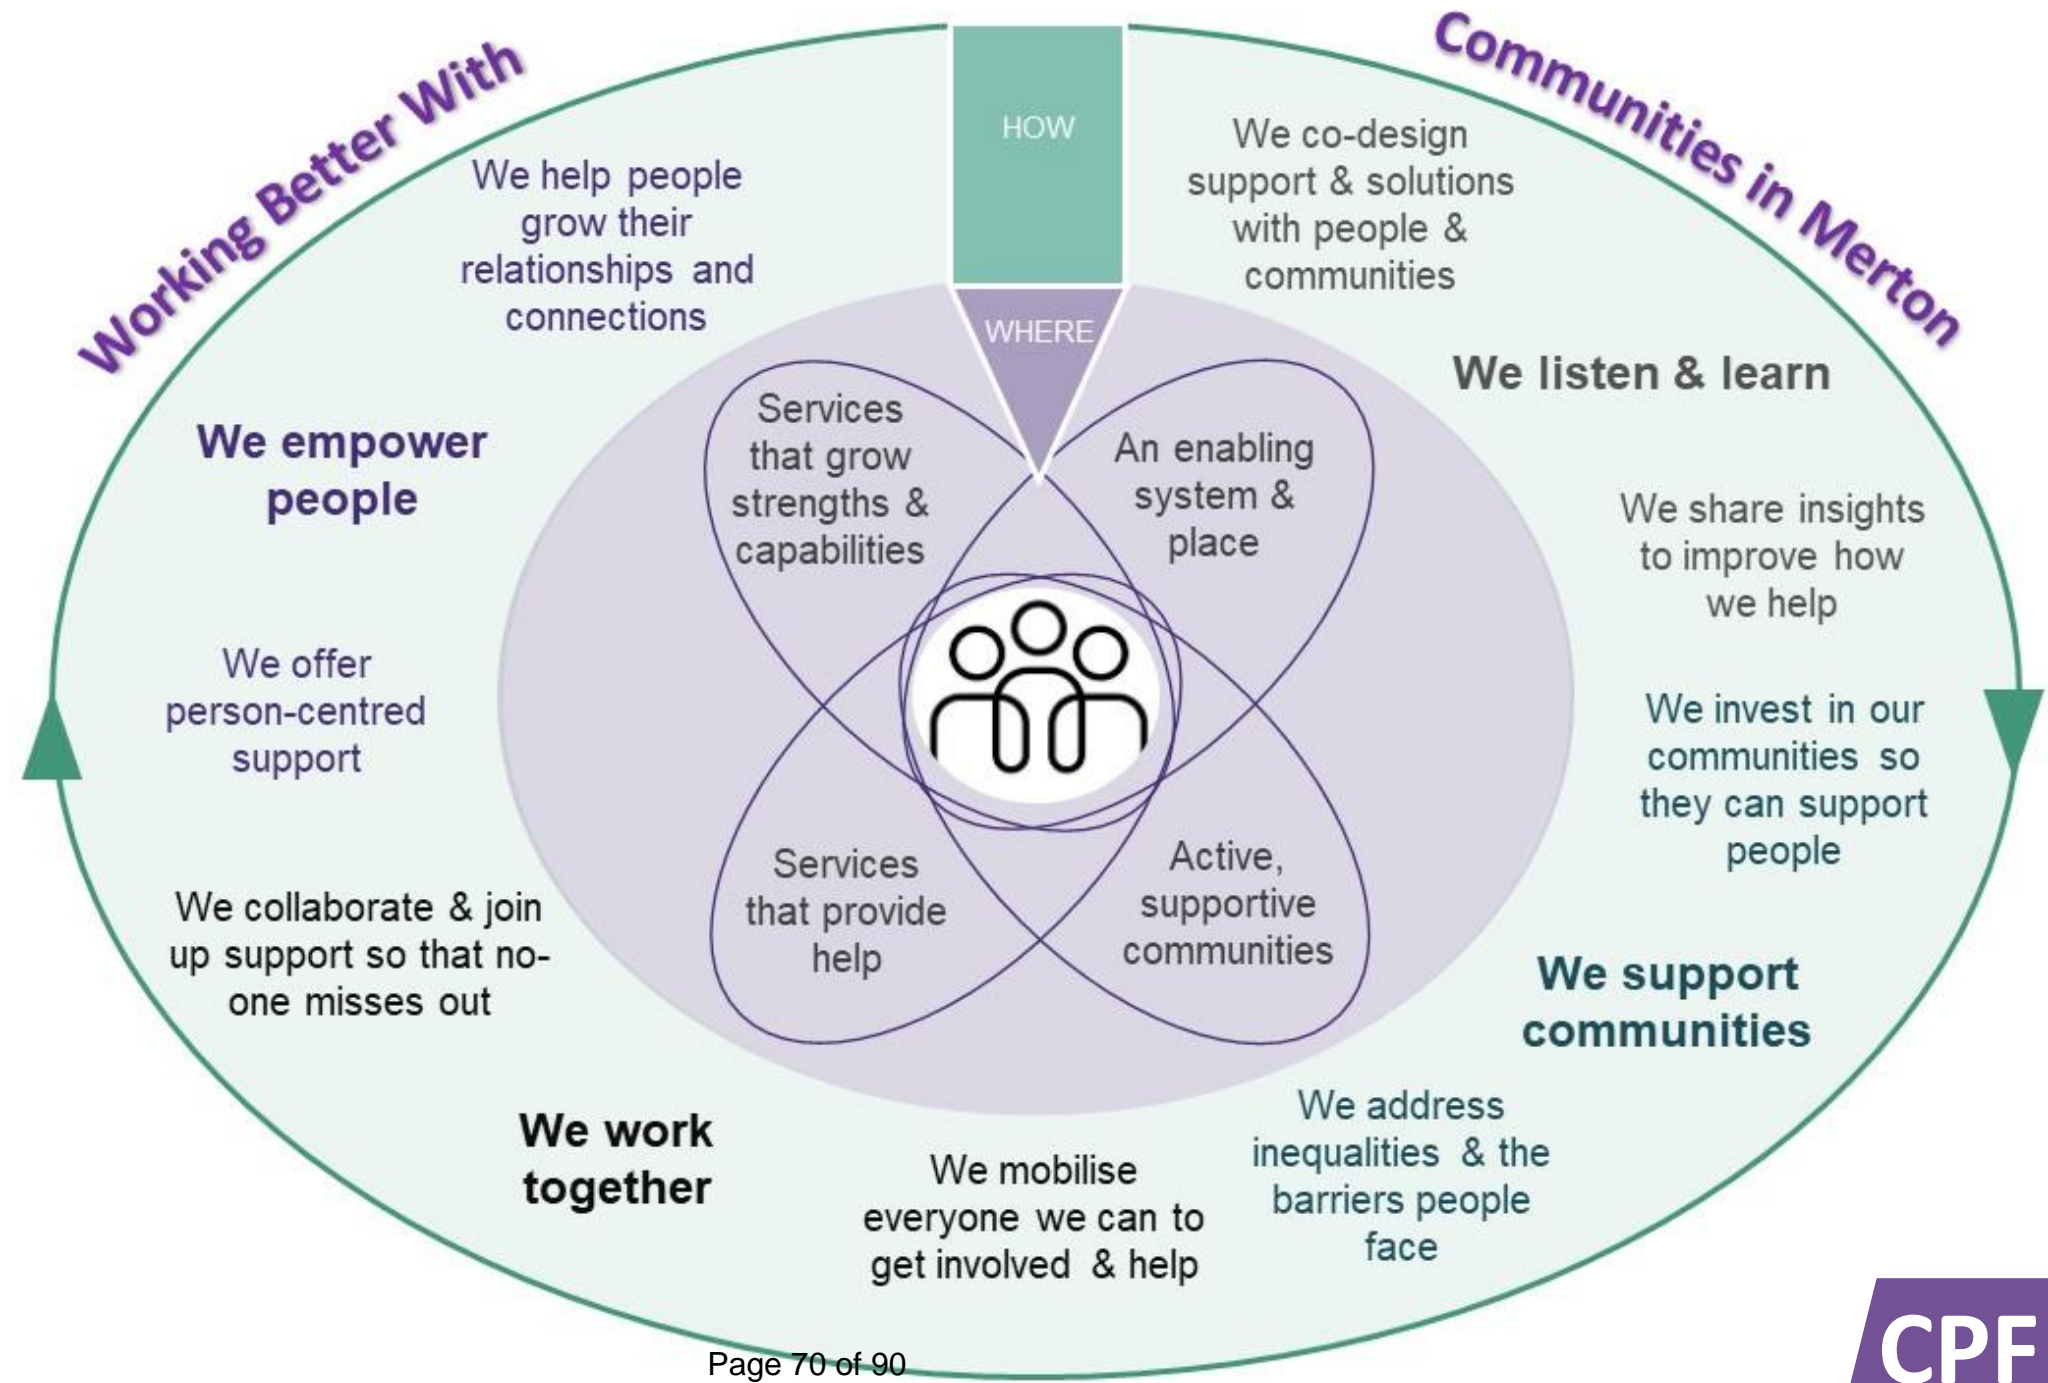

Working Better With Communities Framework

We want Merton to be a place to be proud of, where everyone can thrive, and where we embrace the strength and diversity of our communities and businesses.

By listening and trusting each other, sharing resources and decisions, and empowering everyone to solve the challenges we face, together we can build a better Merton.

Page 70

Merton Civic Pride Programme

The Vision

Merton's Civic Pride Programme aims to:

- Invest in and support Merton's local voluntary and community infrastructure.
- Nurture a strong sense of community and reduce inequalities.
- Bring together preventative services that provide information, advice and support in the community to strengthen Merton resident's physical, social, emotional, and economic resilience.

What are the four key themes in the draft prospectus?

1. Services that provide help

Services that provide emergency assistance to people in crisis and direct help to adults in need

2. Services that grow strengths and capabilities

Services that provide good quality information, support and non-accredited advice, accredited advice and casework and specialist and/or legal representation where necessary.

3. Active, supportive communities

Services that co-design support and solutions with people and communities to help grow their relationships and connections and increase their level of activity.

4. An enabling system and place

Services that help to support an enabling system and place. This will include voluntary and community sector infrastructure support and the provision of small grants via Merton Giving.

8 ways of working for each theme

Listen and learn

1. Listen without judgement and involve residents, staff and communities in co-designing support and solutions and shaping decisions which affect them
2. Learn together and share insights openly to continuously improve prevention, help and support in Merton

Support communities

3. Look for and address inequalities in and between communities, target resources, make support accessible and value community insight
4. Invest in community support (volunteers, hubs, workers, activities) so that communities can develop and support people and places

Work together

5. Think holistically, ask for help and mobilise everybody you can in solving challenges
6. Invest time in relationships, collaborate with across professions, silos and sectors and join up support and solutions as early as possible

Empower people

7. Provide information & help earlier and in empowering, accessible and person-centred ways which build on the strengths of people and communities
8. Connect people into their community and enable them to find and offer peer support, and know where to find help

1. Services that provide help

The VCS are already working with Council to support residents with the increasing pressures of the cost of living on Merton.

The rising cost of living and its impact locally has been a key theme of the partnership over the past few months.

We are looking to commission services that provide direct help to people in need or crisis under the following key strands:

- Emergency Assistance
- Direct Help to support adults in need

2. Services that grow strength and capabilities

The Strengths and Capabilities theme will fund information, advice and 1-1 support services which grow people's strengths and capabilities and enable them to live independent lives.

Ways of working

Learn and share insights; address inequalities; collaborate & integrate support; connect and grow relationships

3. Active support communities

Preventative Activities

The Active and Supportive Communities theme will provide preventative activities that support and empower adults 18+ who have no social care needs, although could be:

- At risk of frailty
- Have a long-term condition
- Have a disability/impairment
- Mental health condition or substance misuse problem
- Caring for someone who is ill, frail, disabled or has mental health condition or substance misuse problems.

Ways of working

Learn and share insights, address inequalities, collaborate and integrate support, strengths-based, person-centred support, connect and grow relationships

3. Active support communities

Healthwatch

The Health and Social Care Act 2012 requires local authorities to commission a local Healthwatch which has five key themes:

Page 77

Strategic Context and Relationships

Making a Difference Locally

Informing People

Community Voice and Influence

Relationship with Healthwatch England

4. An enabling system and place

The Enabling System and Place theme will fund:

- Voluntary and community sector infrastructure support
- Small Grants Support Programme via Merton Giving (annual funding)

Ways of working

Learn and share insights; address inequalities; invest in community support; Inspire and mobilise; Collaborate & integrate support; Connect and grow relationships.

4. Small Grants Support Programme

- Response to State of the VCS in Merton 2021 report recommendations and feedback from other engagement on the need to build the capacity and capability of Merton's small, volunteer and community led organisations, including diversity-led groups, to maximise their potential.

Page 79

Allocate funding for smaller groups to build in opportunities and address challenges around infrastructure and capacity.

- Merton Giving a well-established mechanism for disseminating funding to smaller organisations in the borough.
- The fund will aim to build capacity and resilience, address gaps in services and support available and support innovation and the testing of new approaches.

New bidding opportunity: Civic Pride – Investing in Neighbourhoods Fund

Funding to develop Civic Pride

The opening of a fund for investing in neighbourhoods to help to nurture civic pride is being considered for the autumn.

The money comes from the Community Infrastructure Levy that developers are required to pay to support demands that developments place on our neighbourhoods.

Find out more

Civic Pride – Investing in Neighbourhoods: merton.gov.uk/cpneighbourhoods

- The majority of the funding goes to projects delivered directly by the council notably public realm improvements to parks and town centres, but we do support community groups and organisations mainly through grants for actual things such as improvements to facilities.
- We have given grants to community groups/organisations for activities in the past however the opportunity for this is restricted this year because there is less funding available to give out and the demand for public realm and other council projects is expected to be greater. However, we may be able to share any bids with our colleagues managing the Civic Pride – Supporting the Voluntary Sector Fund bidding round in case of any opportunities for a grant from that fund.
- So, the message is if in doubt submit a bid! ...by following the instructions on our webpage: merton.gov.uk/cpneighbourhoods
- Timescales (anticipated but subject to minor changes):
 - Open for bids: 5 weeks this Autumn from Late September/early October 2022
 - Questions & Assessment: late 2022/early 2023
 - Cabinet decision on which bids it would like to support: February 2023
 - Grant agreements: from March 2023
 - Funding available: from April 2023 subject to grant conditions being met.
- For more information please visit the Neighbourhood Fund webpage: <https://www.merton.gov.uk/planning-and-buildings/planning/community-infrastructure-levy/neighbourhood-fund>.
- The webpage includes the bid application form, guidance, and the bidding deadline. It also sets out what bids are required to include and assessment criteria.
- The bid form is being designed so that you don't have to provide answers to all the questions. Anyone finding the form difficult can always send us an email to neighbourhoodfund@merton.gov.uk stating:
 - the name of the organisation or group they represent
 - their contact details
 - how much funding they need
 - what they want funding for and we can get back to them with any questions so that we can fill in any gaps in the information we need to consider the bid.
